Profile

Creating, learning and exploring are my passions. Everything I do is in the pursuit of expressing my creativity while learning and opening myself to meet new challenges head-on. I thrive when I combine my background in engineering and creative skills; I am able to use my innate ability to understand how to build and problem solve while analyzing what is best for the end user with a creative approach. Full stack web development and UX design is the perfect intersection of my strengths: my eagerness to learn, ability to work through challenges, ownership and accountability, and harnessing creativity to build products.
